OVERVIEW

Advent Capital Management, LLC was founded in 1995 and is a registered investment advisor with the SEC. Advent manages approximately $9.2 billion in assets across several traditional, alternative, and closed-end fund strategies for corporations, public pension plans, foundations, endowments and high-net-worth individuals. Advent's proficiency in investing across the entire capital structure is driven by the strength of its proprietary fundamental, bottom-up credit and equity research. Advent's team is among the largest and most experienced in the industry with 21 seasoned investment professionals. The firm has been managing assets in traditional and alternative strategies for over 20 years.

CONVERTIBLES ARE AN OVERLOOKED ASSET CLASS

Convertibles are an overlooked asset class despite outperforming broad equity and fixed income indices over time with lower volatility than equities. Convertibles are not a mainstream asset class, and are not often included in model portfolios of institutional consultants. Convertibles are not widely used in mutual funds, are rarely discussed in financial publications or electronic media, and do not typically trade on public exchanges. Yet the global convertible market (USD 466 billion) is large enough to enable specialized managers to run large diversified portfolios and to generate attractive risk adjusted and absolute returns.

The convertible market has also undergone a positive structural transformation, as liquidity, diversification and quality of issuers have increased significantly with the growth of the market. The majority (over 90%) of the market is comprised of large cap and mid cap issuers. In addition, the terms of convertible deals have also become more favorable for investors, as call protection has been extended and bond maturities have been shortened from 25-30 years to 5-7 years. Despite all of these positive changes, convertible securities continue to be an overlooked asset class and are thus a "think outside the box" investment solution.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

The Strategy seeks equity-like returns by investing in a diversified portfolio of "theoretically cheap" balanced global convertible securities with attractive risk/reward profiles offering 75-85% of the underlying equity upside, while limiting the downside risk to approximately 50%. Advent selects equity-like convertibles that have favorable credit and equity fundamentals as well as positive asymmetry, and it strives to invest in the most attractive convertibles regardless of geographic location.

STRATEGY

The Strategy invests in global "balanced convertibles" that pass Advent's rigorous credit and equity fundamental analysis tests. In addition to convertible models, Advent relies on bottom-up, fundamental credit analysis. This differentiates Advent from those convertible investors who examine these securities strictly from a common stock standpoint, while placing less emphasis on the numerous nuances of the fixed income portion of the security. We utilize a credit based approach to identify attractive convertibles of companies with favorable credit and equity fundamentals. We believe that rigorous credit analysis, in addition to careful examination of equity fundamentals, will result in a portfolio that will produce superior returns over time.

2) The following is the criteria for inclusion in the Composite:

- All new accounts are included at the start of the measurement period following the date the portfolio begins being managed. This is true except when an account is the first account to enter the composite, in which case the account enters the composite immediately.
- Performance periods are on a monthly basis. Portfolios that are terminated will be excluded from the Composite after the last full month the portfolio was under management.
- All accounts must have had an initial account value of at least $10,000,000.
- The Composite will include only those portfolios which meet its investment objective.
- The Composite will be composed of all accounts that meet the criteria to invest in Rule 144A securities.

3) The following pertains to performance results:

- All performance is presented in U.S. Dollars Hedged.
- Returns are presented both gross of fees and net of actual management fees paid by the Advent accounts but not expenses paid by the clients. Global Balanced Convertible Institutional A model fee of 0.65% is used to show net returns for the two sleeves of Advent's closed end funds. The Global Balanced Convertible Institutional advertised fee schedule is 0.90% on the first 25 million, 0.75% on the next 25 million, 0.60% on the next 50 million, and 0.50% on over 100 million. The management fees are described in Part 2 Advent's Form ADV. Returns presented on a gross basis are substantially higher than returns presented on a net basis because gross returns do not reflect the deduction of investment advisory fees and other expenses that would be incurred by a client. Investment advisory fees have a compounding effect in reducing the value of a client portfolio over time.
- Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results.

4) Benchmark Information:

- The Composite is benchmarked to the BofA Merrill Lynch Global Convertible Index. As of September 2017, the benchmark for the strategy was changed to the Thomson Reuters Global Focus Index. This change was made to better represent performance in line with a more common market standard for global benchmarks, consolidation of index providers, quality of global benchmark data and to better represent the global balanced convertible securities market.
- The BofA Merrill Lynch Global Convertible Index is comprised of Global USD and non-USD Convertible Securities and is a rule-driven index with a goal to create an unbiased proxy for the broader global convertible securities market.
- Benchmark returns are not covered by the report of the independent verifiers.

Calculation Methodology:

Advent calculates an asset-weighted return using the aggregate method. This method aggregates market values and cash flows for all accounts and treats the composite as if it were one account. The dispersion measure is the asset-weighted standard deviation for accounts in the composite for the entire year. Dispersion is not presented for periods less than one year or when there are five or fewer portfolios included in the composite for the full annual period.

GENERAL RISK WARNINGS:

Past performance and hypothetical performance does not guarantee, and is not a reliable indicator of, future results and the performance of the Account may be substantially different. Current performance may be lower or higher than performance shown. The performance of an Advent investment strategy or Account may be volatile, and an investor could lose all or a substantial portion of any investment made in an Advent investment strategy or Account. No representation is given that an Advent investment strategy or Account is suitable for any particular investor. Market conditions can fluctuate and vary widely over time and can result in a loss of portfolio value. It should not be assumed that results for historic or hypothetical portfolio investments or investment strategies will be achieved for other investments in the future. No guarantee or representation is made that any Advent investment strategy or Account will achieve its investment objective or have positive returns. Investments may be in a variety of currencies and therefore changes in rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. Furthermore, the value of investments may be adversely affected by fluctuations in exchange rates between the investor's reference currency and the base currency of the investments. Investments in derivative investments carry certain inherent risks such as the risk of counterparty default and before investing you should ensure you fully understand these risks. Use of leverage may also magnify losses as well as gains. Returns presented on a gross basis are substantially higher than returns presented on a net basis because gross returns do not reflect the deduction of investment advisory fees and other expenses that would be incurred by a client. The returns of a client investment in any investment strategy will be reduced by the advisory fees and any other expenses it may incur in the management of its account. Advisory fees have a compounded effect in reducing account performance over time. Investing in financial markets involves a substantial degree of risk and there can be no guarantee that the investment objectives of an Advent investment strategy or Account will be achieved. Investment losses may occur, and investors could lose some or all of their investment. This document may contain certain forward-looking statements. In some cases forward looking statements can be identified by the use of terms such as "believes", "estimates", "anticipates", "projects", "expects", "intends", "may", "will", "seeks" or "should" or variations thereof, or by discussions of strategy, plans, objectives, goals, future events or intentions. By their nature, forward-looking statements involve risk and uncertainty because they relate to future events and circumstances. Actual outcomes and results may differ materially from any outcomes or results expressed or implied by such forward-thinking statements. The success or achievement of various results, targets and objectives is dependent upon a multitude of factors, many of which are beyond the control of Advent. No representations are made as to the accuracy of such estimates or projections or that such estimates or projections will be realized. Actual events or conditions are unlikely to be consistent with, and may differ materially from, those assumed.
